Day Three – 7 March
SINGAPORE CITY TOUR

After breakfast meet with your guide and driver. This morning we trace the history of Singapore's beginning as a British colony with a visit to the Raffles Landing Site. This was the site on which Sir Stamford Raffles landed on 29 January 1819 and found a small settlement of Malays headed by the Temenggong (governor) for the Sultan of Johor.

Continue with a walk through the Colonial District. The area forms the very heart of Singapore, with its neo-Palladian buildings lining the banks of the Singapore River and some of the most famous landmarks in the city. Beside the Raffles statue is Singapore's oldest surviving government building and former Parliament House. Next to this is the Victoria Theatre & Concert Hall originally built as the Town Hall in 1862.

Next Stop is Little India, a colourful, fragrant and vibrant district for the Indian community. The original occupants of this downtown niche were Europeans and Eurasians who established country houses here. Only when Indian-run brick kilns began to operate here did a markedly Indian community start to evolve. Today, Little India is still bustling with traditional businesses and religious centres. Stroll along the streets to see the traditional shops displaying Indian artefacts, clothing stores and restaurants.

Kampong Glam Sultan's Mosque

We proceed to Kampong Glam, the Malay ethnic enclave allocated to the Malays, Muslim immigrants and traders from the Malay Peninsula, Java, Sumatra, Celebes Islands, Riau, India and Southern Arabia, by the Raffles Town Plan of 1922. This Malay Historic District used to be and still is the hub of the Muslim community today. Here, we stroll along the narrow streets, especially the laidback and colourful Haji Lane; the many shops displaying Arabian artefacts, silks and perfumes and Malay rattan goods; the National Mosque and the Malay Heritage Centre.

Take a walk through the historic district of Chinatown - full of contrasts and fascinating details. A place where the forefathers first made their homes, where historic buildings have been lovingly conserved and century-old beliefs are still practiced. Explore the renovated shop-houses along the narrow streets and see teahouses, medicine shops, acupuncturists, and calligraphers practicing their trades as they have for generations.

Move on to Joo Chiat and Katong, a distinctive charm can be traced back to its Peranakan roots. A quiet residential area formerly dominated by wealthy Straits Chinese families or the Peranakans, many of the older Peranakan homes in Katong, once seaside villas, still stand tall and picturesque.

Kim Choo Kueh Chang, founded over 40 years ago where patrons can savour its famous sweet rice dumplings. Enjoy a sampling of the Nonya cuisine in this traditional shop. A marriage of cooking styles, Nonya cuisines combine the preparation techniques of both traditional Chinese and Malay cooking. This unusual marriage gives Nonya cuisine its distinctive taste, filled with exciting flavours from the use of local herbs and spices, and more often than not spicier and hotter than Chinese food.

Tonight we've booked a table for you at the Imperial Treasure Super Peking Duck Restaurant (excl.).

The Gardens capture the essence of Singapore as the premier tropical Garden City Step into the Flower Dome and you'll be standing in awe of nature. Spectacular and innovative in design, it is one of the icons of Bay South Garden. The Flower Dome replicates the cool-dry climate of Mediterranean regions like South Africa, California and parts of Spain and Italy. Home to a collection of plants from deserts all over the world, it showcases the adaptations of plants to arid environments.

Enter the Cloud Forest, a mysterious world veiled in mist. A 35-metre tall mountain covered in lush vegetation shrouding the world's tallest indoor waterfall showcases plant life from tropical highlands up to 2,000-metres above sea level. Ascend to the mountaintop in comfort by lift before descending via two walkways in the clouds for an aerial view of the canopy and mountainside below.

Lunch at a local restaurant and have a rest before your tour this afternoon.

Our tour starts at The Singapore River - the lifeline of Singapore where the first immigrants eked out a meagre living and saw Singapore transform from an obscure little fishing village to a great seaport. Admire beautifully restored warehouses that now house chic quayside dining and entertainment spots and the contrasting skyscrapers of the Financial District. Then marvel at magnificent colonial buildings and five grand old bridges. Enjoy a delightful three-tier Afternoon High Tea served at the sun-lit Courtyard with its magnificent high glass ceiling at The Fullerton Hotel. Favourite items are replenishable and complemented by free-flow of premium teas and coffee.

Walk it all off at The Fullerton Heritage Gallery or mail a postcard home through the colonial-style Red Pillar Post Box located at the gallery. Let our guide take you back in time from when it was a Fortress built at the mouth of the Singapore River to the first General Post Office in the early 20th century and now the beautifully restored Fullerton Hotel, Singapore's 71st National Monument.

End this heritage trail on a bumboat cruise along the iconic Singapore River and watch the transformation from fishing village to a great seaport! Free evening for dinner at the restaurant of your choice.
